

The Whitleigh Weekly!

Despite the fact we have two more school days left of 2023, this will be the final newsletter. I wanted to thank all of the Whitleigh family who have welcomed me into the team and I reflect back on so many positives in my first term here. It has also given me some ideas in what we want to achieve moving forward so that as a school, we continue to grow and ensure all of the children here at Whitleigh thrive in an environment that is purposeful and safe. I want to wish you all a very Merry Christmas.

Have a wonderful weekend,

Mr Dyson

EYFS Nativity

I was 'wowed' on Wednesday watching our children in Foundation perform their Whoops-a-Daisy Angel production. The children spoke and sang brilliantly. To perform so confidently in front of a big audience made me incredibly proud. It was great to see both shows so well supported by parents. Thank you everyone.

Book Fair

Wow! We sold £337.67 worth of books at the Book Fair which resulted in £84.42 in rewards to spend in school. Thank you to Miss Elliott for organising this and to all of you for encouraging your children to purchase and engage in books.

Christmas Dinner

It was great to see the whole school gather on Wednesday for Christmas lunch. The music played and the children smiled. My thanks go to the catering team for such a great lunch and to our staff team who gave up their time at lunchtime to spend it with the children.

MUFTI Day

A message has gone out today to say that on our final day on Tuesday, children can come to school in their own clothes. Each year group is doing something fun and this will have been communicated to you by teachers.

Carol Singing

On Monday, I joined Ms Byng, Miss Russell and our choir at Home Park for the Carol Service which was excellent. Our children joined children from other schools within the city and sang a range of songs which got people into the festive spirit. Yesterday afternoon, our choir went to another carol service at St. Andrew's church in town and although this one was a little more daunting, our children did a great job.
